Interpreters on the National Register are qualified, accountable and security vetted. Our register is free to use. To access our register please go to the following web site:

www.nrpsi.co.uk

The Register can be used in two ways

1) Checking if an interpreter is registered

You can search for a specific interpreter either by name or registration number. All registered interpreters have a Registration number which appears on their ID Card.

2) To find an interpreter to employ

You can search for an interpreter to employ by one or more of the following search criteria

Language, Security Clearance, Town/City, County or First part of Postcode

If your search returns too many interpreters please start again and add a further field i.e. Language and Town/City.

If your search returns too few or no interpreters then please search only by Language.

Registered interpreters are issued with a Photo ID Card to prove their registration and identity. This should be checked when they arrive for an assignment. This is what the ID Card Looks like:
